

Print this page for your reference.

If the slideshow images seem too large for your computer monitor, you may get better results by changing the desktop display resolution to a higher setting.

To make the change on a standard PC:

Go to Start, and select Control Panel.

Select Display, and then click the Settings Tab.

Adjust the Screen Resolution Slider to the size that is closest to 1280 x 960 or greater, and matches the screen layout above the selection slider.

Then click Apply, and reconfirm your changes if prompted.

That's it. Your slideshows should now be sized properly.