

How to Connect to RISS

RISS members may connect to riss.net in two ways:

(1) Node Connectivity

A node refers to connectivity of an agency-controlled information technology system to riss.net. States that access RISS as a node will have a high-speed connection into riss.net to obtain access to RISS resources. States with an interest in obtaining a connection as a node will need to complete an application to RISS.

(2) Individual User Connectivity

Individual users access riss.net via an Internet Service Provider.

A riss.net enrollment package must be obtained from your regional RISS center.

For additional information, contact your regional RISS center.
