Training: Site Fire Safety

Following a number of high profile fires on construction sites, the UK's largest social housing contractor Lovell, approached Wilkinson Construction Consultants to put together a bespoke half day training package.

Drawing on over 25 years of relevant experience we were able to produce a suitable training course covering Legislation, case studies, technical guidance and examples of actual site inspections. The course was initially run at Lovell's London office and proved so popular that we were asked to roll it out over to the entire Lovell office network. Courses were held throughout England, Wales and Scotland over a 2 year period to train over 200 site managers and associated staff.

The feedback from the courses was very positive with speaker Geoff Wilkinson typically rated as 'Excellent' and with attendees only complaint being that they wish the course could have been longer!
