REVIEWS

Celebrating its five-year anniversary this coming season, Sarah Donohue and Aaron Wood started small dance company My Turkey Sandwich on a whim. The dancers worked with the Rose Wagner Center and well-established dance companies to gain space and work with fellow dancers to perform their small, one-shot productions for sold-out crowds. The biggest selling point is that every performance is an original piece, and in many cases, will never be seen again.

Salt Lake City Weekly, September 2012

Aaron Wood beautifully manipulated his elegant movements in and around the gossamer pane of fabric, trying to avoid being overtaken.

Deseret News, November 2011 - Melissa DeMoux

Dancers probably think about food all the time, especially when it comes to the calorie-burning creativity of modern-dance company My Turkey Sandwich founders Aaron Wood and Sarah Donohue ... this stuff sticks with you. So, if dance be the food of love, serve it up.

Salt Lake City Weekly, September 2009

Dancer and choreographer Aaron Wood's "Appalachia Waltz" is a well-constructed and emotion-filled moment within the otherwise frantic and silly performance.

Salt Lake Tribune, November 2008 - Kathy Adams
