

Born on January 11, 1933, in the U.S., of Québécois parents who were naturalized Americans; a Catholic priest (1959) for some thirty years, but left the ministry (1988); now, an agnostic; got a Ph.D from Boston University in Systematic Theology with concentrations in Biblical Theology, Philosophy of Religion, and the works of Yves Cardinal Congar, O.P. (1975); taught both undergraduates and graduates for some thirty years (1972-2003 -- Emmanuel College [Boston], Regis College [Weston, MA]), Rivier College [Nashua, NH] Labouré College [Dorchester, MA], The Jesuit Weston School of Theology [Cambridge, MA], Northeastern University, [Boston]); now retired Emmanuel College Professor Emeritus of Religious Studies, and happy. Regarding my education, publications, credo, career, family, friends, my life's joys and pains, see the rest of this Website.