Count Casimir Pulaski, for whom the USS CASIMIR PULASKI is named, was born in south central Poland on March 4, 1747. Born to wealth and privilege, he sacrificed both in the struggle for the freedom of his native land. At the age of 24 he was hailed as the first military leader to win a victory with Polish troops in nearly a century, as a result of his defeat of the Russians at Czeszochowa. However, he was branded a regicide by those close to the King and was forced into exile. With the support of Benjamin Franklin, Pulaski came to America to aid the Revolution. By his ardor and military skill he won the confidence and respect of Washington; and following his distinguished service at Brandywine he was appointed Brigadier General and Chief of Cavalry. A few months later he resigned as Chief of Cavalry and obtained permission from Congress to raise an independent corps. This corps was to become known as the Pulaski Legion. During May 1779 the Legion was instrumental in the successful defense of Charleston, S.C. The following October, in an attempt to rally the decimated American and French forces at the siege of Savannah, Ga., Pulaski was mortally wounded. He died on board the American ship, Wasp, on October 11, 1779 at the age of 32.

With his death it was recognized that a great soldier, a man of honor and integrity, had laid down his life for the country which he had come to serve and all felt the loss to American arms. King Stanislas August Poniatowski of Poland paid him the following tribute-"Pulaski has died as he lived-a hero-but an enemy of kings." His was a colorful and noble career, the life of a true idealist who never compromised in his convictions as to the importance of liberty and freedom. He was a true Pole and a true American.

Commander Lee H. Frame, Jr. graduated from the University of Michigan in 1961. His first duty assignment was the USS TWINNING (DD 540) stationed in San Diego, California.

In 1963, Commander Frame completed Nuclear Power Training at Vallejo, California, and Arco, Idaho and was then assigned to the staff of the Nuclear Power Training Unit, Idaho. After graduating from the Naval Submarine School in 1965, Commander Frame served in USS SEADRAGON (SSN 584) homeported in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. In 1968, he reported to USS PATRICK HENRY (SSBN 599) (GOLD) in New London, Connecticut, for a tour of duty as Navigator and Operations Officer.

In 1970, Commander Frame reported to Naval Submarine Training Center, Pacific, located in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, where he served as the Director of the Navigation and Communications Training Department. Returning to New London, Commander Frame served as Executive Officer, USS KAMEHAMEHA (SSBN 642) (GOLD) from 1973 until August 1976 when he started Prospective Commanding Officers Training. Commander Frame assumed command of the USS CASIMIR PULASKI (SSBN 633) (GOLD) in March 1977.

Commander Frame and his wife Sandra, reside in Gales Ferry, Connecticut, with their three children, Eric, Cary, and Kimberly.

USS CASIMIR PULASKI is the twenty-eighth et Ballistic Missile submarine and the fifty-rd nuclear submarine to be launched since 4. She is approximately 425 feet in length, feet wide, and displaces 8200 tons submerged. vertical missile tubes located aft of the can launch ballistic missiles while subged. The nuclear propulsion plant allows submarine to remain submerged for extended iods at sea. Oxygen generators permit the marine to manufacture all of its oxygen from sea. Special atmosphere purification equip-t removes irritants from the air and maintains proper balance of oxygen, carbon dioxide, and er elements during prolonged submergence.

T H E I N S I G N E

The Insigne of the USS CASIMIR PULASKI symbolizes her role as a deterrent force. The atom represents the nuclear propulsion system which allows her to remain submerged for long periods the missile, her deadly retaliatory power; the globe, her ability to roam the vast seas undetected.

The motto of the PULASKI, PER TRIDENTEM LIBERTATA -Freedom Through Sea Power- calls attention to her role in preserving our Country's freedom and way of life through strength. The phrase, "I came to hazard all for the freedom of America," is taken from a letter written by Count Pulaski to Congress on August 19, 1779. In this letter Pulaski spoke for all those who, despite indifference and neglect, were carrying on the battle for Liberty. These few words say much about the character of this courageous man who loved freedom so dearly.
