Project 52

Hi again! Welcome to week 20 of the MyMemories Project 52 series! My how time flies!! I hope you are having fun reaching into your heart and soul on this journey to perfect our storytelling and keeping for ourselves and our families. There is so much WORK that goes into the process and projects sometimes, that it is really important sometimes to set aside some time to look back. It's really a real boost sometimes to look at where we've come FROM to see how far we have progressed and improved! So, this week we are going to take a little time to sit back and review and take a minute to...

{ Reflect }

If you are an annual chronological scrapper, this week will be easy for you. If you are an event scrapper, this might take a little more time! But set aside some time this week to go BACK and pull out a project or two you did very early in your scrapping. Do you see how much your style has changed and evolved over time? Do you still grab and download every single freebie that you see online? Chances are you probably have grown quite a bit in your style and in your taste and in your process! You might be more selective now when shopping or buying. You have probably found a Designer or two who's work you really LOVE and you find yourself gravitating toward them more. Whatever your place along the road, don't forget to look back sometime and see what you've done before and CELEBRATE what you've learned that makes you a better memory keeper! Great job!

More fun to come with MMS & P52
